Comments:

The HAKKO FX-600 Soldering Iron is the close cousin to the popular FX-601 Soldering Iron. Using a similar heating element and temperature control design, the FX-600 is ideally suited for the hobbyist and electronics enthusiast that is looking for a high performing soldering iron at an affordable price.

The HAKKO FX-600 has a standard conical tip shape that is suited for a wide array of electronics soldering and uses the same T18 Series soldering iron tips as the popular HAKKO FX-888D Soldering Station, so there is a wide variety of shapes available to meet your soldering needs.
